WELCOME TO ISSUE 11

Greetings in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, my special Cub Corner friends!

I hope you've stayed warm through the cold winter, and are enjoying the beautiful spring weather and new life.

We have an all-new theme for you in this spring issue of Cub Corner magazine: Missionaries.

So many times we wish we could be like the great missionaries of the Lord in the jungles of Africa and different places around the world. Well, you can be! And we're going to tell you how in this magazine.

There are millions of people in all parts of the world who have never been introduced to our Lord Jesus Christ or heard the Message of Brother Branham. YOU CAN HELP THEM! No matter who you are or where you live, God can use you to spread His Word.

We hope that you enjoy this issue of Cub Corner magazine.

God richly bless you,

Brother Joseph

Have you ever wondered how the Word of God is spread around the world? Sure, Voice of God Recordings prints millions of books every year. But what good would those books do if they just sat on the shelf? God wants His people to read them, and He wants people to hear the Voice of His prophet.

The Voice Of God Recordings gets these books and CDs into the hands of missionaries around the world who help spread God's Word, but that's not enough. There are still millions of people who have never heard this Message. THAT'S WHERE YOU COME IN! We want YOU to be a missionary!

Voice of God now has CDs of Brother Branham that are designed to be handed out to people who have never heard him before. So now, you don't have to just support a missionary. YOU CAN BE A MISSIONARY!

You have to think like a missionary, act like a missionary and talk like a missionary.

Sometimes the right thing to do is just go talk to someone. Tell them about Jesus and about Brother Branham. They may look at you funny, but that's OK, it all comes with being a missionary. Sometimes you might want to take a more subtle approach. God might lead you to leave a CD somewhere where someone would pick it up and listen to it. Or you might want to give one to your friend or family member. Always pray about what God wants you to do. If you ask, God will lead you. And if they are supposed to believe, God will certainly speak to them also.

You can purchase CDs of Brother Branham from Voice Of God Recordings. We have made them very inexpensive, because we want you to give lots of them away to others.

Don't forget to let us know what kind of missionary work you've done. What seemed to work well? What didn't work? Write us a note to tell us all about it.

We are very excited about hearing from you, and learning all about your new missionary journeys.

"And I trust tonight, that everyone here will be ready at that time. Not only that, but you will become missionaries around home, that'll go out, and help and bring others to the fold."

the Legend of the Robin

There is an old legend about the little red-breasted robin. It's a story about how he got his beautiful red chest.

As the story goes, one Friday afternoon, a little, brown bird went out to fly around. Up until today, he was just a regular, brown bird, but all that was about to change.

As he was flying around, he looked down and saw a horrible sight. It was our Lord Jesus, hanging from a cross. He was bleeding and dying right in front of the bird's eyes. The little brown bird just had to save Him. He flew down as fast as he could to see what he could do. When he got there, he saw the nails that pinned our Lord to the cross; they were big and heavy and they were driven deep into the wood that He was hanging from. It seemed impossible, but he just had to try to free our Lord. He used his little beak to grab a nail, and he pulled as hard as he could. It wouldn't budge. He flew over to our Lord's other hand, and pulled with all his might. The nail wouldn't move, but this brave, little bird wouldn't give up. He tried and tried, but he was just so little, and those nails were so big.

Finally, after he became completely exhausted, the little, brown bird fell to the ground. He laid there, helpless, while he watched Jesus die on the cross. The little robin had never cried so much in all of his life.

When he finally got enough energy to make it home, his family asked him what was all over his chest. The exhausted, little bird looked down and saw that our Lord's blood was all over him. He cried and cried as he told his family the story of Jesus dying on the cross. From that day on, the little robin has always had a red breast.

So, next time you see a robin, tell him that you love the Lord Jesus too. Also tell him that Jesus rose from the grave a couple of days later, so he doesn't need to worry anymore!

how it all happens

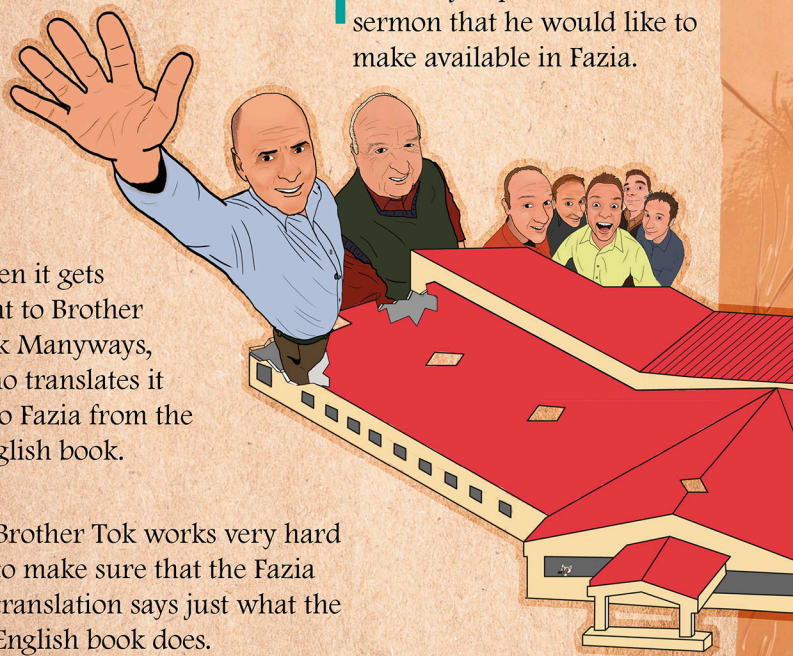

Here is a really short look at what it takes to produce a translated Message into "Fazia." It sure is a lot of work, but it is definitely worth it!

1 Brother Joseph chooses a sermon that he would like to make available in Fazia.

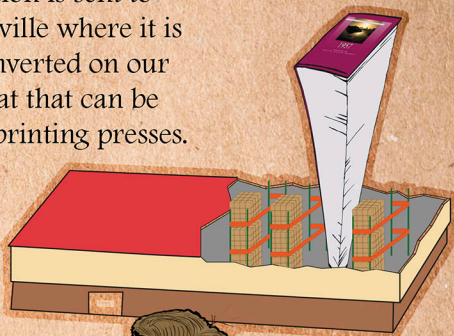

2 Then it gets sent to Brother Tok Manyways, who translates it into Fazia from the English book.

3 Brother Tok works very hard to make sure that the Fazia translation says just what the English book does.

4 Then, Brother Tok sends it to Brother Dooblechek who carefully reads the Fazia, and corrects any errors that are found.

5 Then the Fazio translation is sent to our offices in Jeffersonville where it is checked again, and converted on our computers into a format that can be printed on our HUGE printing presses.

6 After this, the Fazio translation is sent back to Brother Dooblechek for one final proof, to make sure that nothing was accidentally changed on our computers.

7 Finally, once everything is approved, the new book is printed and shipped to God's people around the world.

YF POINTS!

Have you heard about the new YF points? Now you can use your Young Foundations I.D. card that you got last Christmas to save points for really cool rewards. Every time you listen to the Foundation Tape on www.youngfoundations.org and then take the quiz, you will earn 10 points. You will also get 10 points for taking the quiz inside this magazine. You can earn 5 points if you participate in our Missionary Passport Program, and there will always be new and fun ways to earn extra bonus points! If you listen to every Message posted on youngfoundations.org and take every quiz in this magazine, you will earn around 350 points a year. And that doesn't include all the extra points you will earn if you check the website! If you go to youngfoundations.org, you can sign in using your special ID number on the back of your card. Once you're signed in you will be able to see which awesome rewards you want to save your points for. It's really a great way to earn rewards; you get to save for really cool stuff while doing the most important thing of all: hearing the Word of God.

MISSIONARY STORY CONTEST

We want you to write a story about a missionary experience. It should be a real story about something that happened to you or someone you know. If Brother Joseph picks your story as the winner, we will print it in a future issue of Cub Corner Magazine! We will also give you a super awesome prize. Here are the rules:
The story has to be related to missionary work. Do your best to get more than 100 words, but less than 900. It should be about something that really happened. All entries must be received by June 23, 2011.
You can email your story to CubCorner@youngfoundations.org or mail it to:

Be a Missionary

Have you ever wanted to be a real life missionary? Here's how:

The Voice Of God now offers witnessing CDs that are designed just for missionaries. They are priced very low just for people like you who love to tell people about God's prophet, Brother Branhman.

Make sure to write in and tell us how you used them; we would love to hear your story. You may decide to leave one in a carefully selected place, or take time to tell your neighbor about them.

Still Waters

We are very excited about youth camps this year. Make sure to be checking the website to keep up to date on the camp schedule. If the Lord is willing, it looks like we're going to have a pretty busy summer; we hope to see you there!

Kids Sponsor Missionary

There are reports that young Christians around the world have sponsored a missionary in the Philippines. Early reports say that the youngsters banded together to help Brother Jeremiah travel throughout his native country of the Philippines spreading the Message of the hour.

Baptism in the Philippines

"LORD I SURRENDER ALL," This is what Sister Christine wrote on her baptismal pictures that she sent me. She was so thrilled when she shared with me, the great event of her life Sunday morning, November 21. Sister Christine said, "I'm so happy that I followed God's Word in baptism." The weeks prior she has, with her papa and brother, been listening to the Cebuano CDs of Brother Branhman. On several occasions she has mentioned to me of her love and thankfulness to the Lord and VGR for the Message God has given through His prophet Brother Branhman. My life has thus been transformed and made new, thanks be to my risen Lord. There in a small village, in the Philippines, there is a tape playing. The Voice of God is being heard by people speaking? By. They stop, inquire and say, "Who is this man speaking?" May the Lord continue to bless VGR and the believers in the Philippines. Your brother in Christ, Michael Jeffersonville Pastor Traps Wolf, Takes Him Home for Pet.

An actual newspaper report by Bruce Temple, August 23, 1942
The Rev. William Branhman, 522 E. 8th, Jeffersonville, is one man who just won't keep the wolf away from his door - but residents of the Henryville neighborhood, who have made an earnest effort to get the pesky beast away, are about to make the Pentecostal minister a hero just the same.

Mr. Branhman is the current pastor of that northern Clark County town because he single-handedly caught a prowling wolf after the beast had cleared the earth north of Henryville of sheep, calves and chickens. Not satisfied with merely trapping the wolf, the minister took the animal home to convert him into a household pet.

Just Routine Work for Him.

The wolf's capture was little more than routine for this clergyman who works during the week as a high-line patrolman for the Public Service Company and serves his pulpit on Sundays at Jeffersonville Pentecostal Tabernacle, 804 Penn.

He has battled "five wives" high up on the power company's poles, fought and captured black bears in Alaska, Maine and the Rocky Mountains and only last year brought home a live wolf he captured near Bute, Mont.

That Mr. Branhman will leave October 15 on another hunting excursion to the Rocky Mountains would indicate that his capture of the wolf near Henryville yesterday was merely a conditioning drill for the rigors of the coming autumn pilgrimage.

Besides gaining the gratitude of residents of the Henryville area, Mr. Branhman has the thanks of the Floyd County sheriff's office for solving a riddle that has troubled Sheriff Raymond Jaegers' staff for three weeks. Sheriff's office attaches there made an expedition shortly after midnight three weeks ago into the knobs country of northeast Floyd County after fishermen had reported seeing a "wild mountain lion" prowling there. That quest proved fruitless but Deputy Sheriff Harry Chapman, told of Mr. Branhman's feat, was glad to admit that the lion and the wolf were probably one and the same.

Mr. Branhman, who insists even a wolf "won't bite the hand that feeds it," interested himself in the plight of the Henryville people after reports had trickled down to Jeffersonville that the sheep, cattle and chickens there hadn't had a moment's peace in weeks.

Forked Stick Used to Pin Wolf.

Sleeping by day, preying on livestock and emitting blood-curdling howls at night, the wolf had made a home northeast of Henryville, near the Floyd-Clake line.

The clergyman visited the wolf's den and set a steel trap. Hiding in ambush, he waited for darkness. The wolf walked out and into the trap. The pastor pinned his prey with a long forked stick, put a rope hitch over the animal's mouth and then led the animal home with a rope.

Mr. Branhman described the captured animal as part wolf and part dog, with wolf's feet and eyes. It has broad shoulders, narrow hips and weighs about 80 pounds, he said, estimating that the animal is about seven years old.

Saint John Chapter 4

"EVERYONE! EVERYONE! LISTEN TO ME! HE IS HERE, HE IS HERE! The One we've all been waiting for, He has arrived!" The excited woman was yelling as she ran into the city. "Come, see a Man which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ?"

The woman at the well in Samaria was obviously very excited about Jesus, and she couldn't keep it to herself; she had to go and tell. But what was she so excited about?

Her day probably started out just like every other day. She wasn't living a godly life, so she could not go down to the well first thing in the morning. She had to wait for all the other women to finish first. When they were finally done, it was her turn.

She grabbed her waterpot, and went to the well, but today there was a Man sitting there. It was pretty strange to see a man there, but it became even more odd when He spoke to her. She didn't know it yet, but she was standing face to face with Jesus.

Jesus asked her to give Him a drink. Now that was very unusual; it was not customary for a Jew to speak to a Samaritan.

The woman at the well sensed that something was different about this Man. She continued to speak to Him for a few minutes, then Jesus told her things that He could not have possibly known about her. Now she knew for sure that there was something very special about Him.

"Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet," she finally said to Him. As Jesus continued to speak to her, she realized that He may not just be a prophet of God, but the very Messiah, Himself!

She said, "I know that the Messiah cometh, which is called Christ: when He is come, He will tell us all things."

Jesus answered, "I that speak unto thee am He."

It was HIM, the very Messiah they had been waiting for, the One who was promised to come and save us all from sin! Everyone had to know that He was there. She left her waterpot and ran into the city as fast as she could. "Everyone! Everyone! Listen to me! He is here, He is here! The One we've all been waiting for, He has arrived!"

Once the woman recognized Jesus, she had to go and tell others about Him. She was so excited, and so sincere about what she had seen that the people believed her and came out to hear Him for themselves. Because she witnessed to them, they got the chance to hear Jesus, too!

What would you have done if you were her? What if you met Jesus, would you tell everyone about Him? We believe that Jesus is the same today as He was back then, so if He is speaking to your heart today, maybe you should go and tell someone about Him. You have the same chance today that she had back then. So get excited about it, and help spread the GOOD NEWS! JESUS IS ALIVE, AND HE IS WITH US TODAY!

Philip the MISSIONARY

The day of Pentecost had just taken place, and the apostles were on fire with the Holy Ghost, telling everyone about their Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. Philip had been there too, and was holding a great revival in the city of Samaria, preaching Christ to the people. They all agreed together and accepted the words that Philip spoke to them, because they heard and saw the miracles that he did. Because of this, there was great joy in the city, and they were baptized in the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Just when everything was going so well in Samaria, the Angel of the Lord spoke to Philip and told him to arise and go toward the south, which was in the desert. The people of the city tried to tell Philip to stay there, but Philip knew to obey what God commanded him to do.

Philip left and went into the desert, and there he saw an Ethiopian man of great authority. This man had also been to Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost, but he had not received the Holy Ghost and couldn't understand the Scriptures. He was sitting in his chariot reading from the book of Isaiah, when the Holy Spirit told Philip to join him.

Philip ran to the man and heard him reading, and said, "Understandest thou what thou readest?" The Ethiopian man couldn't understand because he was too educated, but Philip had just been filled with the Holy Spirit and knew exactly what the Scripture meant. Philip told the man that the Scripture was talking about Jesus Christ, and he told him all about Jesus. The Ethiopian man believed with all his heart that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, and wanted to go to the water to be baptized right away.

As soon as Philip baptized the man, the Spirit of the Lord immediately took Philip away to another country to preach more of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Meanwhile, the Ethiopian man went back to his country in Africa and introduced his people to Jesus Christ, also.

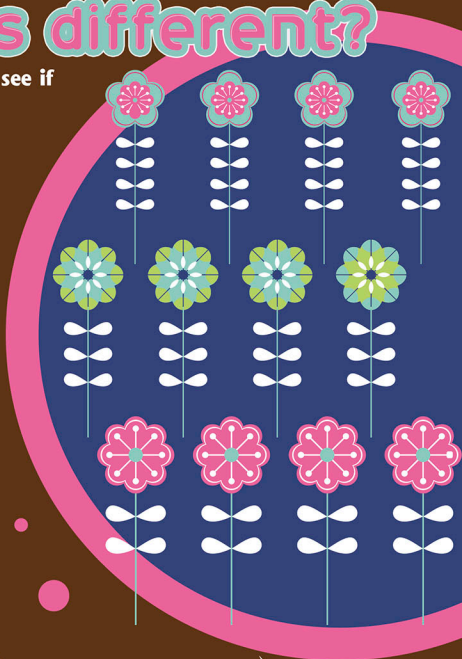

Both Philip and the Ethiopian man became missionaries for the Lord Jesus by telling others about Him. You can do the same by following the leading of the Holy Spirit and telling others what God has done for you, and that He can do the same for them.

LION AND TIGER THE BIG JUMP

Lion and Tiger were great buddies, it seemed like they did just about everything together. Today was a beautiful spring day, tailor-made for playing with your pal!

The two boys just loved to ride their bikes together. They would go round and round their home-made track, pretending to be the best riders since the great "Jumps McSpeed."

Tiger absolutely loved Jumps McSpeed; he was by far the best racer in the Mammal Racing League. Lion laughed and laughed when Tiger would raise his hands in the air, open his mouth as wide as he could and make crowd-roaring noises. Tiger talked in his announcer voice, "Here he is folks, the best jumper ever, the one and only... Jumps McSpeed!"

Lion giggled at his buddy as he raced down the track. Their eyes got bigger as Tiger approached the ramp. It was a small ramp, but in Tiger's mind he was re-living Jumps McSpeed's massive leap over the grand canyon.

"Wow, you went like 2 paws that time!" Lion yelled as his friend came to a stop.

Tiger fell backwards with his feet sprawled out to his sides like he was overcome with emotion. His radio voice rang out, "He did it! He did it! The greatest jump ever, from the greatest jumper ever!"

Lion laughed and laughed at his crazy buddy.

The next morning, Tiger was soooo excited. "Lion, Lion, did you hear? Have you heard the news? Its for real, its really happening!"

"Calm down Tiger, take a breath and relax." Lion replied.

Then there was silence. Lion waited. More silence.

"Well?" Lion finally asked.

"Sorry, I'm still trying to take a breath and relax. Do you think I'm relaxed enough to talk now?"

Lion laughed at his silly friend, "Yes, I think you're relaxed enough."

"He's coming, he's coming, he's coming!" Tiger had somehow flipped onto his head, and his feet were pointing straight up in the air as he sang this chant as loud as he could. "The greatest jumper ever, the greatest jumper ever, not the greatest jumper never, he's the greatest jumper ever!"

Lion was laughing hysterically at his friend, but somehow managed to sneak out the words "What are you talking about?" In between his cackling.

"Only JUMPS MCSPEED! And he's coming here!"

"Oooooooh." Lion finally realized. "When is he coming?" he asked his upside down buddy.

"Day after tomorrow" Tiger said as he finally got off his head and stood upright. "It will be the coolest thing since..." Tiger had stood up too fast and got dizzy. He started to stagger around the yard mumbling something about candy bars falling from the airplane in the sky, when he finally came back to himself: "... Day after tomorrow! Day after tomorrow! Day after tomorrow! I gotta go get ready."

Lion went back to his house, still laughing at his silly friend. It took a few hours before he realized that today was Friday. Day after tomorrow would be Sunday! He can't skip church to go see a guy jump his bike. Now

"your life speaks so much louder than your words"

what was he going to do? He didn't really care that much about seeing Jumps McSpeed, but it meant everything to Tiger. Once again, Lion felt really stuck. Would he completely disappoint his best friend and do what was right? Or would he compromise his time to worship? He decided to pray about it until tomorrow.

By the time Lion woke up, he had made up his mind. He walked outside and saw Tiger stumbling around the yard again. "Were you standing on your head again, Tiger?" Lion asked.

"How can you airplane my candy bars?" Replied his delirious friend.

"I can just tell" Lion said, "Hey, there is something I need to talk to you about: I won't be going to the jump on Sunday. I just don't think it is as important as going to church. I'm sorry."

"Really?" the disappointed and slightly dizzy Tiger replied, "Are you sure? I thought you were my best buddy in the whole world," Tiger said.

"Tiger, I'm still your best buddy. I just can't go because I know that God doesn't want me to."

No one said anything for a little while.

"Ok, I understand," Tiger finally said while fighting back his tears. But Tiger really didn't understand. He would do anything for Lion, and he thought Lion would do anything for him. He was pretty upset.

The two sad boys didn't know what to do for a while. It was really hard for both of them, so they decided to go home.

On Sunday morning Lion got ready for church just like always, but he couldn't help but think about his buddy. He didn't feel bad about not seeing the jump, he just felt like he had abandoned his buddy. He asked God to make his friend not be sad, and to help him understand why he couldn't go with him. He prayed that God would show Tiger that he wasn't trying to be mean, he was just doing what he thought was right.

As he sat down at church, he was still thinking of his friend. He heard someone sit next to him, but he was too deep in thought and prayer to notice who it was. Finally he looked up and saw Tiger sitting right next to him. Tiger just looked at him and smiled. Lion was so happy, even happier than when he saw Tiger standing on his head.

There are a lot of things that Lion could have said to try to make Tiger see things his way, but instead he just chose to do the right thing and pray for his friend. Tiger saw how much Lion loved him, and he knew that he wouldn't do anything to hurt him. But he also knew that Lion loved God, and would always do his best to put Him first. In the end, Lion's actions, not his words, are what helped Tiger realize that some silly guy jumping a bike is not nearly as important as God.

Brother Branham said, "You know, you know, your life speaks so much louder than your words, till no matter what you say, people know what you are by-by what you are." 63-1222

Always remember: If you really want to help someone see that God is real, show them God living in you.

Witness for JESUS

THE TESTIMONY OF A YOUNG MAN WHO KNEW HE DIDN'T HAVE TO TRAVEL TO A FOREIGN LAND TO BECOME A MISSIONARY, HE JUST NEEDED TO GO TO HIS BACK YARD.

Greetings in the wonderful and all-powerful Name of our Lord Jesus Christ!
I was asked to share a testimony of a recent encounter my seven year old son had with our neighbor...

A few weeks ago, I was sick and asked my son if he could do something very important for me: go and clean the kitchen. That was to include washing the dishes, picking up the floor and sweeping. I asked my six year old daughter to help, too. They did such a good job that I rewarded them with five dollars each.

A few days later, my son came to me asking for an envelope. When I asked why he needed one, he replied that since our neighbor has been so nice to us that he wanted to give him a dollar and tell him in a note, "thanks for being such a good neighbor." I told him that it was very sweet of him to want to do that but he didn't need to give his money, etc. I said, "they know we think they are good neighbors." He kept on with trying to explain to me why he needed to do it, and I kept brushing it off.

As I was busy in the house, he slipped out to our car, which was parked on the street. I saw the front door open and looked out and saw he was down at the car. After calling him in, I scolded him for going out without permission, not understanding quite yet what was going on in his little mind and stirring in his heart. He had tracts in his hand as he walked back to the house, and then I realized that he had been down to the car to raid the missionary box. (We keep a plastic box in the back of the car loaded with all the tracts from VGR and different books of our prophet, Bro. Branham. That way if we ever meet someone who asks about what we believe, we are ready!)

Anyway, my son came to me a little later with a fat sealed envelope asking if he could go and put it in the neighbor's mailbox. I still wasn't sure that he should, and I asked what he had inside. He said there was a dollar and tracts. It was loaded by the looks of it! I told him I didn't want him to put it in their mailbox, but he could pass it through the fence if he saw our neighbor was outside. Our neighbor went out into his back yard about that time, and I told my son he could go out and give it to him if he wanted to. I stayed in the kitchen, monitoring from the window and back door.

After quite a while went by, I stuck my head out the back door for a quick look and saw my son sitting in our peach tree, talking to our neighbor who was kneeling on his deck listening through the fence with the most mild look on his face. It looked like there were tears in his eyes. I heard my son say, "...yeah and all you have to do is let Jesus come in your heart!" I could hear his voice was very earnest, so I went back in the kitchen and closed the door. Another long while went by, and as I was going to call him in, he came in. He said, "Mom, I'm having a really good talk with our neighbor about God and his phone just rang, so he had to go, but he said he would be right back."

I told him that he and his sisters need to get ready right away because we had to drive and meet Daddy for lunch. We all got ready and went outside.

Our neighbor was outside by that time again and came over to the fence. We all talked a few minutes, then left.

Of course, I was very curious as to what my little missionary had been telling, so I asked him while I was driving down the highway, "What have you been talking to our neighbor about?"

He answered, "Oh, I've just been talking with him about the Seven Seals, and about Brother Branham being the seventh church-age messenger, and about that Jesus is coming soon and we need to be ready!"

I had to hide my face, as I didn't know whether to laugh or cry...

LE MURS

JEFFERSONVILLE

LEMURVILLE

Welcome to Lemur

The largest lemurs weigh about 15 lbs.

Lemurs leave a scent with the bottoms of their feet. So does my little brother!

They eat leaves, fruit, and insects.

Lemurs hang out in groups of 10-15.

All lemurs live in Madagascar and its surrounding islands.

They comb their hair with their teeth. Hey guys, see if you can do that!

Mommy lemurs carry their babies in their mouths until they are able to hold on to the fur on the mother's stomach or back.

Like humans, lemurs have opposable thumbs. This means the thumb can bend toward the other fingers to allow them to pick things up. It's very helpful when lemurs need to peel bananas, climb trees, cling to teddy bears, or play their violins!

the Commission

A MIGHTY ANGEL OF GOD appeared before Brother Branham and gave him his commission while he was praying in an old cabin in the year 1946. Brother Branham was so scared that he couldn't even move. He froze at the sight of the big man dressed in a white robe, until he spoke these words, "Do not fear, for I am sent from the Presence of the Almighty God to tell you that your peculiar birth and life has been to indicate that you're to take a gift of Divine healing to the peoples of the world."

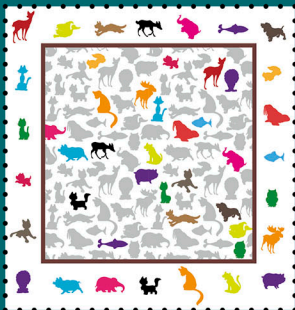

The Angel told Brother Branham that he would pray for kings and monarchs and great men, and be taking a Message around the world that would bring the second coming of Christ. Brother Branham told the Angel that he couldn't do it, because he was uneducated and illiterate. But that didn't matter to God, He had already chosen him before the foundation of the world to perform this job.

That same year, Brother Branham had his first meetings in St. Louis, Missouri; then he traveled to other places in the United States to preach the Message God had given him. In 1950, four years later, Brother Branham made his first trip overseas to London, England. He went to pray for King George, the King of England. While in London, he also prayed for a woman by the name of Florence Nightingale from Africa. Both of them were healed after being prayed for by God's prophet.

From England Brother Branham went to Helsinki, Finland, where a little boy was raised from the dead after a bad car accident. This was another miracle to testify the truth of his commission. It was only the start of Brother Branham traveling all over the United States, Canada, and around the world praying for the sick, preaching his God-sent Message, and teaching others about Jesus Christ. He was a true missionary for our Lord Jesus.

Some people are just plain mean. They scamper around, cheating, and even sometimes lying. This isn't a story about one of those types of people, in fact it's not even about a person. It's a story about a dog, a dog named Hoopla. You see, three years ago Jill earned Hoopla by working outside in the summer sun's sharp rays. She saved and saved until she could finally buy him. When he saw her coming to get him, Hoopla yelled as loud as he could to get her attention. He quickly found out that Jill didn't like noise, so the dog amended his ways really quickly. Jill was so happy with him; but what would her other dog "Boa" think? When they finally met, Boa totally loved him. They became the best doggy friends ever.
